buffalo's collection of stories, essays, and politically incorrect commentary by and about the marines fighting terrorism in Iraq and Afghanistan shows how troops feel about being in harm's way.

Dem Days Was Hell recorded testimonies of former slaves from 17 U.S. states. The Work Projects Administration presents a poignant anthology of firsthand accounts that illuminate the harrowing realities faced by former slaves in the United States. This seminal work is characterized by its raw authenticity and compelling narrative style, blending oral histories with social commentary. The testimonies collected during the tumultuous era of the Great Depression offer insights into the lived experiences of African Americans and serve not only as a historical documentation but also as a platform for the voices that have long been silenced. The WPA's efforts reflect a broader literary trend toward the preservation of folk narratives, allowing readers to engage with a past that deeply informs the present sociopolitical landscape. The Work Projects Administration, a New Deal agency established to alleviate unemployment during the 1930s, embarked on ambitious projects capturing the oral histories of marginalized communities. By assembling these narratives, the WPA aimed to document the harsh realities of American life while employing those in the arts and humanities. The initiative reflects the organization's commitment to social justice and the preservation of cultural heritage, which undoubtedly influenced the curation of this impactful compilation. Dem Days Was Hell is highly recommended for scholars, students, and general readers eager to explore the intricate tapestry of American history through the eyes of its most affected individuals. This book not only serves as an indispensable historical record but also as a reminder of the resilience of the human spirit in the face of systemic oppression. Engaging with these narratives will enrich one's understanding of the complexities of race, identity, and memory in America. In this enriched edition, we have carefully created added value for your reading experience. An introduction draws the threads together, discussing why these diverse authors and texts belong in one collection. Historical context explores the cultural and intellectual currents that shaped these works, offering insight into the shared or contrasting eras that influenced each writer. A combined synopsis selection briefly outlines the key plots or arguments of the included pieces, helping readers grasp the anthology's overall scope without giving away essential twists. A collective analysis highlights common themes, stylistic variations, and significant crossovers in tone and technique, tying together writers from different backgrounds. Reflection questions encourage readers to compare the different voices and perspectives within the collection, fostering a richer understanding of the overarching conversation.

I Am in the F.S.P.F.S.P. stands for Field Security Personnel, that is the authorized version. So begins this remarkable account of six months' service with the British Expeditionary Force in France, up to and including the terrible retreat to and evacuation from the beaches of Dunkirk at the end of May 1940. Absorbing, affecting, thrilling, often funny, this book is very different from other war memoirs. It was the first on-the-ground account of Dunkirk to be published in 1942 and lacks nothing in the immediacy of its telling. The narrative is gripping, and the style is revolutionary, immersing the readers in the emotional and psychological turbulence of the author's experience and making them feel they are living through it themselves. The result is a stunningly authentic and involving record of one of the defining episodes of twentieth-century British history. Editor N. H. Reeve provides a lucid, critical, and biographical afterword and includes two extracts from an unfinished work by Gwynn Browne in which his idiosyncratic stream-of-consciousness style is used to describe the London Blitz and the mood of the civilian population in wartime.
